

Privacy Policy of Smart List application

Smart List does not collect, store, or share any personal information on external servers.

All shopping list data is stored locally on the user's device. The app may access device storage for importing or exporting shopping list files and may access the camera for QR code scanning features.

No user account, analytics tracking, advertising SDKs, or third-party data collection services are used within the application.

The app does not sell or transmit personal data to any external party.

Permissions used:

- Camera: for QR code scanning
- File/Storage access: for import/export functionality
